WAC 388-02-0605 What if a party does not agree with a final order entered by OAH or BOA? (1) If a party does not agree with the final order and wants it reconsidered, the party must:

- (a) Ask the ALJ to reconsider the decision, if the final order was entered by an ALJ; or
- (b) Ask the review judge to reconsider the decision, if the final order was entered by a review judge.
- (2) The final order or the reconsideration decision is the final agency decision. If you disagree with that decision, you must petition for judicial review to change it.
- (3) You may ask the court to stay or stop the DSHS action after filing the petition for judicial review.
