Introduction

The Special Commitment Center (SCC) is notified of a less restrictive alternative release by court order and provides community notice per RCW 71.09.335. Community notification is provided through the OffenderWatch process. Once SCC Staff complete OffenderWatch notification on releases – it is law enforcement’s responsibility to provide additional notice to their community as outlined in RCW 4.24.550.

The Special Commitment Center and the transition treatment teams for persons who have court-ordered conditional releases closely monitor treatment progress and activities. As a result, the persons ordered by the courts to less restrictive alternative settings, including the secure community transition facilities, have not committed a new sex offense or other criminal offense. When early warning signs of potential problems occur, consideration is given to take the person into custody and return him or her to the SCC for evaluation and recommended action to the court of commitment.

During the court process that leads to an order of conditional release, judges and opposing counsels outline conditions that residents should follow. Some of these conditions include but are not limited to: having community chaperones accompany residents when they are moving in the community for a period of time, limiting access to internet and data options on mobile devices and computers, allowing only limited access to do travel in a week for resident needs, etc. Early warning signs are when transition treatment teams and assigned Department of Corrections Community Officers document that residents are not following the conditions of their release. The transition treatment team then works with the resident to try and correct their behavior; and if there is a pattern of minor offenses or more significant concerns they may be remanded back to the total confinement facility for additional treatment.

A resident that has been returned to custody for evaluation and recommended action still receives a final order from the court of commitment. Their return for additional evaluation and recommended action does not automatically revoke them from their original LRA. The judge that oversees the case then either remands the resident to the total confinement facility for a timeframe or permanently; or will re-release them to their original LRA or a differing LRA depending on availability.

This report is submitted in fulfillment of the requirements of RCW 71.09.325(4). The statute directs the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) to compile information in writing on all violations of court-ordered conditions of release committed by all civilly committed sex offenders who are living in less restrictive alternative (LRA) settings. In addition, the department is required to report any penalties and actions taken by the department to remove a person from an LRA setting. The report is issued on an annual basis to the Office of Financial Management and the appropriate committees of the legislature.

This report addresses violations that occurred between September 1, 2017 and August 31, 2018. It also provides a status report on any violations that were addressed in a previous annual report but were not resolved before the report was submitted.

Definitions

For the purpose of this report, the following definitions from the SCC policies are used.

Less Restrictive Alternative (LRA). Court-ordered treatment in a setting less restrictive than total confinement that satisfies the conditions set forth in RCW 71.09.092. LRAs include private homes, secure community transition facilities (SCTF), and other court-authorized settings including contracted residential settings with twenty-four hour staffing.

Secure Community Transition Facility (SCTF). A residential facility for persons conditionally released to a less restrictive alternative, including the SCTF in Pierce County on McNeil Island, the SCTF in King County and any community-based facilities established under Chapter 71.09 RCW and operated by or under contract with DSHS.

Private Home. The LRA resident's own home or the home of a family member or other person that the court of commitment has approved as a less restrictive alternative placement.

General Violation. Failure to comply with a condition of release set by the court of commitment, by DSHS, or by the Department of Corrections (DOC). A general violation may include a resident's failure to comply with a treatment plan requirement, posting, written instruction or verbal instruction given by an authorized person. A general violation is distinct from a serious violation.

Serious Violation. A violation by an LRA resident that includes but is not limited to the commission of any criminal offense, any unlawful use or possession of alcohol or a controlled substance, or any violation of a court-ordered conditions, which targets the individual's documented pattern of offense that increases the risk to public safety. For purposes of this SCC policy, an accumulation of failure to comply with treatment plan requirements or with rules, infractions of rules, or any behavior that, in the judgement of the SCC CEO, represents a risk to public safety may be considered a serious violation.

Current Status

During the period of September 2017 to August 2018, there were fifty-four residents in court-ordered LRA settings. Nine of the fifty-four residents that were in LRA settings unconditionally released before August 31, 2018. Two residents passed away. Additionally, two residents had their LRA status revoked. Seven residents have been returned, and remain at the SCC Total Confinement Facility on McNeil due to serious violations of their LRA conditions.

Forty-one residents of the original fifty-four total residents on LRA status during this time had at least one violation.

There were 40 serious violations and 109 general violations from September 2017-August 2018. Some of the violations actually fall under more than one category of violation. Thirteen residents have been returned to total confinement at the SCC during this period. Of the thirteen residents returned to total confinement, eight have been re-released back to an LRA with additional restrictions and conditions imposed by the court of commitment.

Serious Violation Explanation and Updates

RCW 71.09.325 (1) any conditionally released person who commits a serious violation of conditions shall be returned to the special commitment center, unless arrested by a law enforcement officer, and the court shall be notified immediately and shall initiate proceedings under RCW 71.09.098.

The thirteen residents listed below returned to the TCF due to a violation of their court order. If an action occurs and a resident is returned to the TCF, a court hearing is requested to determine if the resident will be revoked or returned to the community.

Some of the residents below have been returned to the TCF more than once from the previous violation report to August 31, 2018.

Service Providers

During this reporting period, there were no sanctions issued to service providers.

Violations

Per RCW 71.09 (4) DSHS must document all violations, penalties and actions.

Residents may have multiple violations, which is noted by (-) in the following columns.

*NOTE: Violating court order terms does not always negate the need for SCC to continue paying stipends or for residents rent. Each resident has variations in their court order that allow or limit the Special Commitment Center from refusing to pay expenses while a resident resides on island.

We categorize our violations based on type:

- Failure to follow GPS Guidelines
- Failure to follow directives
- Misuse of phone
- Failure to follow travel itinerary and guidelines
- Failure to follow treatment
- Unapproved contact
- Failure to follow Internet/computer guidelines
- Unapproved relationships
- Other – these are categorized as technical violations of the court order that may be beyond a resident’s control (i.e. an SOTP provider retiring suddenly or losing housing due to circumstances).

ZZ	LRA	DOC was notified by another LRA resident of some concerns he had regarding the resident. Earlier that morning, this resident was on the front porch of the residence. Resident ZZ was attempting to exit his residence using a window and later in the day despite traffic, the resident was walking towards 51st Avenue mentioning that he needed to get to Yakima and holding a bag of cookies.	RCTT discussed the incident and the team agreed that resident needed to return to total confinement at the SCC for further care and treatment.
