

This map accompanied the Thigpen v. Meyers decisions. The notations show population figures in relation to numbers of senators, in addition to other facts such as the dominant industries of each county. Clearly, redistricting was a complicated and detailed process.