WAC 246-803-210 Basic sciences. To become an East Asian medicine practitioner, an applicant must have training in basic sciences that must consist of a minimum of forty-five quarter credits or thirty semester or trimester credits. These credits shall consist of the following:

1. Anatomy;
2. Physiology;
3. Microbiology;
4. Biochemistry;
5. Pathology;
6. Survey of western clinical sciences; and

[Statutory Authority: Chapter 18.06 RCW and 2010 c 286. WSR 11-17-105, § 246-803-210, filed 8/22/11, effective 9/22/11.]